Presentation Details

Ryan Breton is a meteorologist at NEWS CENTER Maine (WCSH 6 in Portland and WLBZ 2 In Bangor). Nor'easters sparked Ryan's interest in weather, but he enjoys forecasting all seasons. Ryan earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Meteorology from Penn State, one of the best atmospheric science programs in the country. Before joining NEWS CENTER Maine, Ryan began his on-air career at NH1 News in Concord, New Hampshire, and previously worked as an intern with the meteorologists at WCVB-TV in Boston. Ryan was awarded the American Meteorological Society's Certified Broadcast Meteorologist (CBM) seal earlier this year.

January 12-16, 2019

The Technical Program along with Committee meetings, Registration, the Bookstore and Speakers Lounge will be at the Omni CNN Center and the Georgia World Congress Center.

The AHR Expo will take place at the Georgia World Congress Center, Monday, Jan. 14 - Wednesday, Jan. 16.

BS* + BEER

*Building Science

Date: Wednesday, December 19, 2018.

Time: Space is reserved 5:00-8:00. Discussion from 6:00 to 7:00.

Location: Lake St. George Brewing Company, 4 Marshall Shore Road, Liberty, ME.

Topic:

SPRAY FOAM INSULATION: PROS AND CONS

When should you use it, and when shouldn't you? Why or why not?

No fee or need to sign up; just come ready to enjoy a locally-brewed beverage. (Not BYOB, unless non-alcoholic.) Light snacks will be provided. Inspired by the original building science discussion group at Performance Building Supply in Portland, the discussion is moderated, open to all, and covers issues facing designers, builders, subcontractors and homeowners.

Join the Facebook group BS + BEER or email michael@michaelmaines.com to join the mailing list.
